

When Politicians Play Hide the Pea, Following the Money Does Not Work. We'll try anyway!

A recent statewide investigation by CAL DOGE exposed how $317 million of Proposition 64 cannabis tax revenue, originally approved for substance abuse programs, is instead being misdirected into voter registration and other political activities.

Due to budget shortfalls, the City of San Diego has resorted to implementing new paid parking schemes in Balboa Park and in certain residential communities where street parking had always been free? Instead of charging for parking, why doesn't the City of San Diego simply collect the millions in uncollected and forgiven cannabis business taxes that have been, post audit determined, to be due the taxpayers? Could it be because they have been accused of having "unclean hands" when dealing with certain cannabis licensees?

In COTTON v. CITY OF SAN DIEGO, the evidence of pay-to-play corruption in cannabis licensing and taxation is on full display. Where millions lay uncollected, the City must create new revenue streams. While not on the scale of what we're seeing at the state level, what can be seen and proven in this case represents what just may be the very tip of the local iceberg!
